Death of S. Edwards

It is our sad duty to announce the death of George Stanley Edwards, formerly of Smith's Falls, Ont., but lately residing in Coronation, which took place in the Lacombe Hospital on Sunday, May 19th, 1913. The deceased came west in the spring of 1910 and secured employment with "The Leading Store" in their hardware department, where he remained until last fall, leaving to take a similar position with Thomson & Birckett at Coronation. He was taken seriously ill on Tuesday, May 13th and on Friday arrived in Lacombe and was taken to the Lacombe hospital where everything possible was done to relieve suffering, but without avail, death taking place at 3:45 p.m. on Sunday. His father, mother and a brother reside in Smith's Falls, Ont., one brother at Bishop's Mills, Ont., and a brother, Dr. W. F. Edwards and sister in Alberta, Alta. To these we extend our sympathy in their sudden and bereavement.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Paul Leonard this week commenced delivering milk through the medium of a motor milk wagon. This marks an era in Lacombe. No other town of city in Alberta boasts of such an up-to-date mode of delivery. But you never know what to expect next in Lacombe.

F. McLean returned this week from a flying trip to Montana. He was accompanied by his father.

Friday, Victoria Day, the stores will be closed.

Ottawa, May 17.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Royal Bank will be held in Montreal on July 2nd to approve the bylaw increasing the capital stock of the bank from ten to twenty-five millions.

Just think of what a good refrigerator like the "Challenge" will save you this summer; no soft butter; no sour cream or milk and numerous other things. Get one now and have the use of it—Morrison & Johnson.

Come to the young people's song service in the Methodist church on Sunday evening, June 2nd.

Two of Lacombe's most popular young people, Mr. C. A. Gibson and Miss Mildred Ikin, were united in marriage on Monday last in the Methodist Church, Rev. F. W. Locke officiating. The happy couple left on the evening train on a honeymoon trip to the Mar-time Province. They will later reside in Lacombe.

Lacombe will have an exhibit at the Calgary Exhibition, June 28th to July 5th, and all farmers in the district are invited to assist in getting up a worthy display.

Mrs. L. H. Mason joined her husband in Lacombe on Saturday last. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Mason will reside in the Jackson house on Hamilton Ave.

The property owners on Dolmage Street have asked for a cement sidewalk from Railway Street to Barnett Ave., and the same will be proceeded with at once.

VICTORIA DAY CELEBRATION
Lacombe Fire Brigade will this year celebrate Victoria Day May 24th, with a splendid program of sports, etc. The sports will be held on the agricultural society's grounds and will consist of foot races, jumping, Indian races, pony races, etc. Red Deer's celebrated brass band has been secured for the day. A large number of visitors is expected.

In the evening a dance will be held in the Comet theatre, to which all visitors are invited.

Lacombe vs. Ponoka

On Monday evening last the Lacombe baseball team, accompanied by many fans, visited Ponoka, and met the team of the asylum town on their native touth. The game was a fast one from start to finish, but our northern friends were outclassed. They put up a good, still fight, and at the close of the game the score stood 15 to 5 in favor of Lacombe. Ponoka has some good players in their bunch, and with more practice will make a much better showing. Lacombe's players were in good form, and showed the results of conscientious training.

Gun Club Formed

Lacombe can now boast of a gun club. A meeting of enthusiasts was held a few days ago, when officers were elected and arrangements made for the season. Thirty-eight members were enrolled with the following officers:

Hon. Pres. A. M. Macdonald, President, W. F. Graham, Sec'y-Treas., L. G. Beatty.

A league trap has been ordered by the club, and will be here in a day or two. Shooting will take place every night. The fee has been fixed at $3.00.

Medicine Valley and Gilby

Mr. F. Lawton, Mr. H. Elliott, Mr. G. Macay and the Lampson Bros., are among the fortunate ones that have their seedling finished.

Mrs. Alex Brown leaves on Tuesday for Edmonton, where he intends working this summer.

Mr. Fredrickson made a trip to Lacombe the first of the week.

Mr. Hugo Sydahl has completed his house and they moved into it last week.

Mr. W. P. Tilly had the misfortune to lose a nice yearling colt a few days ago. It tried to jump a creek but got stuck in the mud and water and had chilled to death when it was found.

Mr. John and Harry Berry and their friend Mr. Mullarkey left on the 18th for work during the summer.

A free dance will be held at Mr. John Kinnella's on the evening of the 25th.

For rent, 5-room house—Baker.

Passing Events

The Act extending the boundaries of Ontario, Quebec, and Manitoba was by proclamation in the "Canadian Gazette," put into force on May 16th.

King Frederick VIII of Denmark, who arrived in Hamburg on Tuesday from the Riviera, where he had been since April 11th for his health, died suddenly during the night. He succeeded to the crown on the death of King Christian IX, in 1906, being then in his sixty-third year. King Frederick saw his younger brother become king of Greece and his own, now king of Norway, while he himself was still heir apparent. He was a brother of Queen Alexandra and the Dowager Empress of Russia. He was of Danish descent, and took much interest in all philanthropic objects and was greatly beloved by his people. He is succeeded by his son, Crown Prince Christian, born in 1870.

The floods in the Mississippi Valley are now abating, but the loss of property and life has been enormous. Help is being sent to the sufferers in Louisiana where the floods have been especially destructive.

The occupation of the islands of Karpathos, Kos, Rhodos (Tilos) and Myrso, in the Grecian Archipelago, all belonging to Turkey with the capture of the Turkish islands of Stompolis and Rhodos, completely closes the Aegean Sea. Turkey is thus threatened and isolated from the Mediterranean, and is consequently unable to send warships or troops to Tripoli. There has been some fighting in Tripoli, the Italians claiming victories near Tobruk over groups of Arabs.

The Reichstag has adopted the anti-dualing resolution introduced on May 9, with an amendment drawn up by the Socialists' members, providing that officers who refuse to accept challenges "to a duel shall not be dismissed from the army. The resolution, which was initiated by the Liberal party and the Imperial Chancellor, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, to take steps to put an end to duelling in the army, particularly the practice of making it compulsory for an offended person to challenge the offender or leave the army."

Mr. Smallwood, the correspondent of the London "Chronicle" with the Turkish forces in Tripoli, has been killed in a skirmish near Derna.

According to a writer in the London "Chronicle," there is much unrest in the British navy, due chiefly to dissatisfaction with the conditions of the service, especially pay and punishment. There is talk of the petty officers and men forming themselves into a trade union, which is a breach of the King's regulations.

TENDERS FOR SAND

Sealed tenders will be received by E. J. Tett, Sec'y-Treas. Town of Lacombe, up to noon on Wednesday, May 29, 1913, for the delivery in Lacombe of 100 yards of sand from Gull Lake. The loads will be measured in Lacombe.

Full Fiscal Autonomy is Desirable for Ireland

Dublin, May 9.—Owing, doubtless, to the introduction of the home rule bill, comparatively little public interest has been shown in the report on Irish finance, prepared on behalf of the Irish county councils' general council. It is, however, a document of some importance, embodying, apparently, the views of practical men, who have not been unduly influenced by the effects of embarrassing the parliamentary. The minimum terms which Ireland can safely accept have been amplified in one important particular in a speech by Mr. M. A. Ennis, chairman of the committee responsible for the document. They should, said Mr. Ennis, insist upon the absolute fiscal autonomy of Ireland under home rule. She should have the power of framing her own laws, and the power of collecting her own taxes, and lodging them in her own treasury. At the same time, he would not go so far as to say that they should not accept any home rule that did not give them full fiscal autonomy, because they could not expect to obtain from a Liberal government the power of framing tariffs. Apart from that aspect of the question, a measure of fiscal autonomy should be prepared which, for all practical purposes, would give them in Ireland the power to collect their own taxes, and have their own treasury absolutely divorced from the control of the British treasury. They firmly and forcibly claim this as an essential point.

He believed that the report of the Irish financial commission was favorable to Ireland's claim but he believed also it was recommended that some restriction should be placed on their power to fix tariffs. Freedom, however, he recognized, was greater than free trade, and Ireland would be the gainer by having free trade as she would have the markets of Great Britain open to her. At the same time, while they could not impose tariffs against Great Britain, they certainly should have a limited power to impose protection for their country against foreign industries.

Mindful of Mr. Dillon's stern condemnation of permanent discussion, most of the Redemptive journals make no comment on this statement, or Ireland's case. The National Independent, however, welcomes it effusively as "A clear and emphatic affirmation" of the case it has insisted upon. "In demanding fiscal autonomy," it remarks, "we have been careful to point out that there is no necessary connection between fiscal control and tariff. We recognize that England is Ireland's best customer, and on prudently grounds alone this country would, of course, never think of imposing a tariff against her. Responsibility for expenditure necessarily imparts responsibility for taxation. Exclude customs and excise and what control, we may ask, will Irish statesmen be able to exercise over taxation? How can they effect that thorough financial and administrative reorganization which is so much needed? Our object in insisting on fiscal autonomy and sound finance in home rule has been to secure that Ireland shall be under self-government a self-supporting and self-sustaining nation; that the vicious habit of looking to an external authority for assistance shall no longer prevail, and, above all, to secure a settlement that shall be satisfactory to future generations as well as to the men of the present day."

"It is an 'extreme demand' to ask for a better bill than either of the Gladstonian measures? Mr. Ennis says that the financial results of Gladstone's bills of 1886 and 1893 would have been bankruptcy, and it behooved them to be careful that they sanctioned no financial provisions which those who came after them might apply the sword to no right to sanction. This is sound common sense. The journal insists that the Irish county councils, claim for the divorce of the Irish from the British treasury cannot be ignored, and while agreeing that a percentage of her gross revenue ought to be the measure of Ireland's contribution to imperial services, it considers 9 per cent., as suggested in the report, somewhat high. If Ireland is to be regarded as one of Great Britain's investments, a 5 per cent. return on the revenue raised should not be unacceptably low."

Mr. William O'Brien's journal expresses complete disagreement with the following finding of the committee: "We hold that the provisions of the Act of Union entitle Ireland to claim that she cannot be legally called upon to contribute to imperial expenditure in any larger degree than that originally fixed by the act, which was a proportion equivalent to 32 parts per head of the population of Great Britain to one part per head of the population of Ireland." Prof. Ennis states that this means the journal states that at the present moment, if the net assessment for income tax can be regarded as a fair test of taxable capacity, Ireland is to that of Great Britain in the proportion of one to thirty. This it considers a fit and proper proportion to assess.

An uncompromising claim for fiscal autonomy is put forward by the Economics Echo, which has in view the imposition of an Irish tariff. "If we have not control of our customs," it says, "we shall be unable to protect our industries from rivals on the continent or in America, and we shall be at the mercy of any unfair tariff law which the London Parliament may enact. Why should we not have the power to alter the duties upon beer and spirits? When an increase or a decrease of the whisky duty might serve England it might be ruinous to Ireland. We must be just to ourselves and to those who will come after us. We must remember that the friends of Mr. Gladstone was his home rule bills were so faulty in their financial clauses that had they passed they would have landed Ireland in bankruptcy. We must not run the danger we must stand out to the last for justice; otherwise we may be undertaking obligations beyond our strength. What right has England to collect our revenue?"

A Socialist Plea

Milwaukee, two years ago, elected a Socialist mayor and council. She is the most notable of number at cities, chiefly further west, that have, during the past few years, done the same thing. This year the Socialist candidate for the mayoralty of Milwaukee was defeated by a large majority, and the party, though it carried seven wards, finds itself swept from power. Both victors and vanquished are exulting over the result, the defeated Socialist Democrats, as they call themselves, claiming to be stronger than ever. Their incumbency of office, won as on all hands admitted, owing to the corruption of former administrations, has certainly done one good thing; and may it be permanent. In the United States civic elections are almost never fought primarily on civic issues, but between the two national parties, machine, which are not fighting for any civic principle, but for the control of the local patronage for the corrupt strengthening of their respective parties in the state and nation. A policy more demoralizing or better calculated to disgust good men with civic affairs, or to encourage honest insurgency, however misguided, could not be. Mayor Seidel's victory certainly had the effect of defining the old sacred trust and utterly demoralizing party lines and uniting serious minded citizens in the common cause of defeating the peril to the body politic.

The result of the elections was that Mayor Seidel got thirty thousand votes against the twenty-two thousand by which as its advocates imagine. There he was therefore in a three-cornered contest, elected. His non-partisan opponent, Dr. Gerhard Bading, got five thousand more votes than both of the regular party candidates at the previous election put together, over forty-two thousand. It was evidently a singularly hard fought fight, and the figures show how both sides had cause for exultation. The Socialists, of course, look forward to still growing numbers. Their opponents record their "anti-American" as broken. Only time will show; and the test will be in the honesty and competency of the administration which in each case develops. We have never supposed that the principles of Socialism could be carried out to any such lengths always has been and always will be in government a balancing between communal rights and individual rights. Neither can stand alone. But we have never had any dream of any permanent harm coming from experiments in Socialism as these will almost immediately reveal their weak points. Everything comes to the final test of how it works and we are constantly having illustrations of the horse sense laid up in the old saying—For forms of government let us hope that they last long. That which is best administered is best. There certainly will be high hope that the new city government of Milwaukee, chosen at the sacrifice of party for the city's good, and free from the corrupting tyranny of the party machine will be able to show results that will commend its continuance. Only those who know how the party machine system has ingrained itself into the customs and the very laws of the people can form any idea of the difficulty of carrying on a campaign outside of it, or of the greatness of the emancipation which non-partisan election secures.

The Socialist era is credited, even by its hardest critics, with having been honest in its intent, but is said to have been under the domination of a secret ring which managed it for spoils. This last accusation we should prefer to understand not as implying a system of individual graft, though that is seldom far off, as a system of serving a class at the expense of the community. This is to be gathered from the slogan of the Socialists, which is "class consciousness," a most demoralizing and un-American cry. It is not to be supposed that all the thirty thousand who voted for Mr. Seidel are theocratic Socialists. This phrase of "class consciousness" accounts for them far better. The class which undertook to rule the city by this year's election musters thirty thousand votes out of seventy-three thousand, or forty-one percent of the whole. The uprising of a majority of the people to down this movement had not only these faults to find with it, but was at issue with its somewhat anarchistic attitude towards law and justice, and with its demand for the referendum and the recall, especially to judges. For want of articulate expression for the essential lawlessness of sentiment which has become current among the Socialists, the effective though somewhat vague phrase by which it is denominated in "un-American." This has been the war cry with which the new mayor, Mr. Bading, won the day. There is a strong feeling throughout the more responsible and more independent press of the country that the Socialists have been doing a great work in blowing up some of those donjon keeps of oppression, the civic party machines, and setting before the nation some happy examples of emancipated communities into whose liberties all others are free to enter.

Percival Park

We are still asked the question, "Where is Percival Park?" So we have come to the conclusion that there are a few who do not know where it is. It is just west of the Edmonton Trail and immediately south of Barnett Ave. In Edmonton the city grew out and around the Hudson's Bay Reserve and that land was looked upon as a choice investment and a fine location for a home. In Lacombe the city has grown out and around Percival Park. No other property lies so advantageously as does Percival Park, Barnett Ave. on the north, C.N.R. on the south and east and the G.T.P. property to the west, and to the south and west lie the Exhibition Grounds and Government Experimental Farm. Lacombe is bound to grow that way, and she is going to do some tall growing one of these days. Watch for Percival Park when it goes on the market.

Sealed Tenders

Sealed tenders for the building formerly used for exhibition purposes will be received up to June 1st. We do not bind ourselves to accept any or the highest tender.

School Teachers Wanted

To see that the pupils who can write good compositions take advantage of our offer and write an essay on the subject which has been chosen, "Why I Like to Live in Lacombe." There is $25.00 in it for the best essayist and $15.00 for the second best.

We are certainly going to publish the best essay and if others are deserving we are going to publish them. When men are looking for a community in which to live they naturally take a very great interest in the educational institutions of that community to see if they are good. Here is a chance for you to do some boosting for Lacombe. We want the very best essays that can be produced in Alberta and we are sure you do also. If your pupil receives the prize it will be an honor to him or to her, to you, to Lacombe and to Alberta. Our advertisement goes far and wide. Results come back to us the other day from the Central States. Let Lacombe be known for its educational institutions as well as for its commerce and industry.

We shall receive essays up to June 1st. Those mailed in outside offices not more than 10 miles from Lacombe on June 1st will be regarded as received.

THE WHITE HORSE FARM

Several men have told us this week—and they have wanted to buy land in this section—that this farm was just what they would like if they only had a little more money to handle it.

It is the best thing in the way of a farm in the Lacombe market today and it is a bargain at the price. We have it advertised in Calgary, Edmonton and Winnipeg, so if you want it you had better come along right away.

Let us give you a few items:—
320 acres deep black loam.
115 acres in crop.
7 head work horses.
36 well bred cattle.
59 hogs.
The machinery, a full outfit, was bought last year.
A wind mill in the barn yard.
Barn 50x72, double boarded and painted red; the loft will hold 85 tons.

Large quantities of timothy hay, barley, oats and potatoes. Modern house, 10 rooms, telephone. 135Bbl. brick and cement cistern. 1/2 mile from church and school.

PRICE $21,000 TERMS VERY REASONABLE.

We have a proposition in a business location 200 ft. from two banks and on Barnett avenue. It is a dandy good trade.

A good brick store in a good location facing Railway Street and just a door from the Post Office. The building is 40x80, built on a large sized lot. The merchant now in possession is doing a big business. PRICE $14,000. Terms very, very easy.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mrs. W. Durno, of Calgary (nee Mamie Poole) was visiting relatives in Lacombe during the past week.

Mrs. J. I. Poole was an Edmonton visitor this week.

H. Robinson, late teller of the Merchants Bank here, has been removed to the Vancouver branch of the same institution.

Manager Shilleto has arranged to run a picture show from 10:30 a.m. to 1:30 on Victoria Day, Friday Next, for the benefit of visitors from the country. He has secured very fine pictures for this date, among them being one of the greatest pictures in the world.

Mrs. D. Lockman and Miss Blackie will receive on Thursday, May 23rd, and afterwards on the fourth Friday of each month.

The splendid weather of the past week has been taken full advantage of by the farmers of the district, and most of them have their crop for this year in the average, despite the very bad fall, is greater than ever, and there will be a record crop this year.

A couple of prisoners passed through town on Friday in charge of the Mounted Police. They were a man named Quinn, a man accused of horse stealing, and a man named Fowler, charged with theft. They both came from Stettin.

Hunters will do well to take notice that in addition to other restrictions, they must this year take out a license to shoot wild geese. They can be secured from the officer in charge of the R. N. W. M. P. detachment here.

This license business is becoming monotonous. The last we heard of was a fishing license, and one of our prominent citizens put in an anxious day because he attempted to fish without procuring one of these necessary documents. However, Lawyer Trimble took up the case and the fisherman was honorably acquitted.

Mrs. H. McCully and son Ronald, returned last week from New York State, where they resided for the past three years. Miss Kate McCully will join them in a day or two. Mrs. McCully has taken up her residence on her farm adjoining town.

The editor of this paper is once more one of His Majesty's justices of the Peace, in and for the Province of Alberta. We quit this exalted position once, but have just received notice from the Attorney-General that one of the penalties attached to the office of Mayor of any Alberta town, is that you must be a J. P. Now, it behooves all evil doers to walk the narrow way.

We must ask our readers to excuse the scarcity of news in this issue as, owing to an accident the man who looks after this department is unable to get around. We expect to be in working order next week.

The young people of the Methodist church will hold a service on Sunday evening, June 2nd. Everybody is invited to attend and will be made welcome.

Miss Birdie Slaughter, who was recently confined to the hospital in Edmonton, came home on Monday, accompanied by her mother.

Chas. Mooney took the highest honors and gold medal in his final pharmaceutical examination at Winnipeg last week. He is now a full fledged druggist.

Clifford Danner and Miss Knight, well known young citizens of Lacombe were married in Calgary on Wednesday last. They have taken up their residence at Red Deer, where Mr. Danner is employed as engineer at the brick works.

Peter Valentine, a farmer of the Buffalo Lake district, was taken to Ponoka last week and lodged in the insane asylum. The Titanic disaster has weighed heavily on Valentine's mind, and he was under the impression that he was captain of the ill-fated ship. He became very violent a few days ago and his friends were compelled to call in the police.

Manager Shilleto has made arrangements to put on a special show at the opera house on the evening of the 24th, for the benefit of the visitors to Lacombe. He has secured some extra special pictures for the occasion some of which are very thrilling western photographs. In the evening, after the performance, there will be a grand dance, to which all are invited. Refreshments will be served during the evening and good music has been booked. Admission $1.00.

The Bentley team was assisted by R. Hall and H. H. Campbell, making the visitors easy money for our patching staff. Moulton and Hall did the twirling for Bentley with Campbell behind the bat, while Hutchinson and Whitesell threw for the visitors and C. Whitesell catching. Six innings were played, the score being 7-1 for Bentley. A second game will be played on the same grounds on Wednesday evening.

THE CLIVE REPORTER

Published Under the Auspices of the Clive Board of Trade

Happenings in and Around Clive.

A special gang of C. P. R. section men have been here for over a week repairing track and grade in this vicinity.

The Epworth League had a patriotic service and social on Monday evening that was largely attended. It was under the direction of the literary and social department. Several patriotic songs and selections were rendered and an address given upon "The Empire" by the pastor, Mr. Macdonald. A literary contest and social hall hour closed the evening. Refreshments were served before the meeting was closed with the National Anthem.

The Ladies of Spring Valley are cordially inviting the public generally to their ice cream social and picnic dinner, held on Friday evening on the grounds of the Spring Valley school. Games will start at six and will continue until 8:30. A football match between married and single men will be a feature. A program of music and other numbers will be given later. Those within reach are invited to participate in this Victoria Day celebration.

The Future of Clive

If Clive is satisfied to be a mere agricultural supply centre for the district around it will take no great prescience to assert that in a short time we will behold another example of arrested development. It may grow to possess a population of several hundreds, but there its progress will be stayed unless it has higher ambitions than do yet appear. Very few things "just happen" in the industrial growth of a town; so many things are the result of wise and patient planning. Red Deer, Lacombe, Wetaskiwin and Camrose are just now engaged in publicity schemes for the securing of manufacturing concerns. It is evident that little will pass by to Clive with such an active propaganda going on about us. It is well to look about us and discover what are our capabilities.

As to position—we are in the Moose Jaw extension of the C. P. R. that shows a tendency to push further west towards the coast; we probably will be quite near to the coming branch of the G. T. P. While we can claim no strategic railway position, we can congratulate ourselves, it is good enough.

In looking into the future we must inquire what available sources of power are within reach. The Red Deer river is about fifteen miles away. Here can be secured, after considerable initial expenditure a large supply of electrical power.

Not much more than twenty miles distant are coal deposits where, through steam power, fed by coal at the mine's mouth, electrical energy may be formed and conveyed to Clive.

Possibly this may be too long a look ahead to the ordinary man with no vision. What would seem to be more within the realm of practical possibility at present is the securing of such concerns that can take our natural products and convert them into something saleable and useful.

To begin with, we have here good clay deposits on the very margin of the village where it would be very easy to run a railway spur for loading. These deposits should be developed at once.

As this will always be a cattle shipping point why could not a tanning industry be carried on or a factory to take hold of some of the by-products, as soap. A cereal industry would be in order. Vegetables will grow in enormous quantities and could be canned for market. Would it not be worth while for the Board of Trade to appoint an industrious committee who could quietly proceed to work and secure whatever concerns could prosper here. The West is full of towns that believed in themselves and have prospered. It contains also towns that were full of unbelief and became arrested in their development and are now unprogressive.

If the Board of Trade would take this matter up seriously the results would be good and Clive would grow and her citizens would have greater reason to have confidence in her.

Centralization

There is a marked tendency in industrial development at the present time for the centralization of all business. This is achieved by the help of large plants and large capital. The smaller competition finds it extremely difficult to meet the keen struggle. The purpose is to eliminate the smaller concern and very often when he is eliminated to raise the price of the manufactured article and lower the price to the producer.

When competition is killed the market can be easily controlled. Local dairy plants are receiving such keen competition from Calgary and Edmonton that there have already closed their doors. There are very few running in the immediate vicinity. There are several distinct advantages in keeping the local plant running. But if it means the ultimate lowering of the price of dairy products to the farmer after the local plant is closed, the purchaser will consult his own interests in keeping competition going by patronizing the home industry.

Editorial Briefs.

The Quebec elections show a decided endorsement of Premier Gouin's administration. It is another proof that the man who has the courage of his convictions and takes advanced ground will be appreciated. Gouin spoke out clearly for better schools in the province, for advanced temperance principles and progress generally. He was opposed by the most pronounced ultramontane influences but won handsomely nevertheless. His majority will be slightly increased.

Empire Day celebration opens anew the relationship of the self governing dependencies of the Empire to Great Britain. When Wales, England and Scotland secure somewhat the same measure of local government, it is purely local affairs, it will open the way for a scheme of imperial federation that will give the outlying parts of the empire a voice in its affairs. Loyalty to the imperial idea demands it.

Winston Churchill outlined a scheme the other day for Empire defence. Great Britain was to be guarded from invasion by massing the squadrons at strategic points about her. The colonies were to help with naval units of their own, under local direction in the time of peace, but in the day of hostilities, the central authority was to assume control. This differs only in greater development from the policy of the late Dominion Government. We will soon know where we stand in this matter.

Some old fulminators the night of the moon. There is no scientific proof that the different phases of the moon influences the weather. Exact observations fail to show it. As the moon changes every week all variations in the weather must occur within 34 days of the moon's changes, and most of them within a shorter space than that. Because these variations sometimes coincide, or nearly so, with changes in the moon is no proof at all that what we would expect. The old falsity "after this" and "therefore" on account of this. It has failed. And yet, after all, it is said, a large portion of men today believe in the phases of the moon changing the weather.

An old fable that is hard to down is that a public bar room attracts trade and "builds up a town." The facts are overwhelmingly against it. Recent experiments in local option does not bear this out. Most public bars handle over fifty or a hundred dollars daily, some of them in Alberta several hundreds. At least 80 per cent. of this would go into legitimate channels of trade if the bar was discontinued. It simply means so much out of the merchant and tradesman's hands. Those who imbibe most freely are often the ones who stand the business man off as he must pay cash for his drinks.

The public bar may mean a small addition to the public revenue yearly, but when we offset it with the time lost by drinkers to excess, by the decreased efficiency of work, the prevalence of crime, pauperism, and insanity traceable to the open saloon and the bad debts incurred by the excessive drinker, the bar becomes a debtor to the community. No man would think of burning his house down to boil his kettle.

The public bar is today voted a nuisance and is becoming increasingly unpopular. The liquor traffic is an acknowledged evil. The only reasonable and moral way to suppress it—not license it. Every licensed bar is doing so much more to perpetuate an evil and make it respectable and so draw more and more recruits towards it. Make the bar an outlaw and shameful, and in time you can kill the traffic by withdrawing support from it.

Edmonton is being favored with two church gatherings about the first of June. The Methodist Conference of Alberta meets there about the last of May. On the day they wind up their business, the Presbyterian General Assembly for Canada begins. It is hoped that when the strangers go away they may have left the impression with the ordinary citizen that away beyond Edmonton real estate there a world of deeper interests that demands some close attention.

It was hoped by some a few years back that the invention of high explosives, with their death-dealing power, would soon end warfare, the offensive power of fighting machines becoming greater than their defensive power. Now the already proved power of the aeroplane to drop destruction upon an army or ship below, is making men think that it may put great armaments out of commission. It needs only a great practical demonstration of this to rapidly discourage arming of the nations and destroy the oldest and least defensible game—this of war.

WILLIE SETTLE, appearing in "In Wyoming." Comet Theatre, Tuesday, May 28th.

REV. RICHESON EXECUTED

Boston, Mass., May 21.—(Clarence V. T. Richeson was electrocuted at 12:17:08 this morning. The current was turned on at 12:10:02 and the prisoner was declared totally dead at 12:17:08. The former Baptist clergyman, confessed prisoner of the doomed man during the time of his execution, was out of the chair, erect, eyes straight ahead until he sat down. Then he closed his eyes and kept them shut until the end.

Seated in the chair he was asked a series of questions by Rev. Herbert S. Johnston, his spiritual adviser. In the course of his answer he said: "God will take care of my soul, and I pray for all I for give everybody."

The last of the questions was: "Are you willing to die for Jesus' sake?" The reply in an even, well modulated tone, was simply, "I am willing to die."

The current applied was 1900 volts, eight amperes. The application was sufficient. When the officers and witnesses of the execution entered the death chamber after walking through the prison yard in a pelting rain, they heard a sound coming through the walls the strains of "Swing Low, Sweet Chime."

It was Richeson and his spiritual advisers, Rev. Johnston and Chaplain Stebbins singing. Distinctly audible as they closed with the words "For I know what ever befall me, I see death all things well."

white shirt, turn down collar, and a black bow-tie, with gold studs on his shirt front and with low black shoes, brightly shined.

The party then entered the chamber, Richeson, accompanied by the clergymen followed soon after, the unfrocked minister as calm as either of his companions.

Rev. Herbert W. Stebbins, the prison chaplain, preceded the doomed man during the march to the chair. Richeson settled himself slowly into the chair, threw back his head and closed his eyes.

Four prison guards picked up the straps dangling like tentacles from the chair of death and quickly slipped them into place through their buckles. There was a quiver in every man's hand and even the electrician (who placed the face strap over the doomed man's face before he could adjust it satisfactorily).

Throughout the entire time the former clergyman was talking bravely, earnestly, with full, steady voice, as he gave answer after answer to questions propounded to him by his spiritual adviser, Rev. Herbert S. Johnston.

Richeson left no public statement, but his counsel, Wm. A. Morse, drew out an interview immediately after the execution in which he told of the last hours spent with the prisoner.

"IN WYOMING" COMING
"In Wyoming," which comes to the Grand on May 28, is not a melodramatic as one might be led to suppose, but a striking story of Wyoming ranch life by Walter Mackintosh some tremendously strong situations and a splendid western atmosphere. The play is a veritable Young Lochanvar, and his success in both blend love makes a stirring and vital play. The Prince & Co. who are presenting the play have spared no expense in assembling a cast of considerable strength, and the scientific equipment is said to be entirely adequate.

Mrs. Hiram Cutler is spending some time with her sister, Mrs. Chas. Braithwaite, of Lacombe.

Mr. John Cox, who has been ill since his return from Kansas, some time ago was taken to Lacombe last Sunday where he will remain under the doctor's care until he is better.

Rev. Paterson, of Lacombe, conducted services at the Anglican church last Sunday morning. Rev. Kemp who spent a few days at the home of Mr. Geo. Budd conducted the services at the Methodist Church a week ago last Sunday evening. Evangelist F. A. Campbell and son are holding meetings at the Methodist Church this week. Those men have conducted meetings at Lacombe, Bentley and Rainy Creek with great success and all in this community should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear them.

Friday, May 1st is the date on which all those who are interested in the Rimbeey cemetery are requested to gather there for the purpose of building the much needed cemetery fence. Those who have friends or relatives buried there whose lots should have the superfluous dirt removed from them are especially requested to give this work prompt attention.

WATCH LACOMBE GROW

For the first time in years the people of Lacombe seem to realize that they hold an unusual position among Alberta towns, and that Lacombe commands the situation in what is undoubtedly the most productive mixed farming area in Western Canada.

A very large amount of outside capital is coming in this year, attracted by the great opportunities offered for investment in our district, and from indications we are on the verge of a prosperous season.

Lacombe and district differ in one respect from all other centres in Alberta. While other towns have been doomed to the limit, and subdivision after subdivision sold to the unsuspecting buyers in the East, Lacombe has patiently waited for the coming of the time when her advantages would make themselves known by actual results.

Up to date Lacombe has been content to say that although we have the very best farming district on earth surrounding us, our municipal limits comprise only one half section of land, nearly every lot of which is owned by residents.

No attempt has ever been made to forest undesirable subdivisions upon investors in the east, and as a consequence Lacombe is not a butt for knockers who have put their trust in the only-tongued sellers of subdivisions. No other town in Alberta can claim this immunity.

The advantages of Lacombe district have become known to the world, however, and as a result our lands are being sought by the men who know. During the past few months two desirable quarters of land have been secured adjoining the town on the west; they have been subdivided into town lots and Lacombe can now boast of a real subdivision. And it is not situated six miles from the post office. It is just four blocks from the centre of the town, and in a very pretty locality. When this addition is incorporated within the limits of the municipality, as it will be this year, our town will comprise one square mile. And one very good thing about these subdivisions is that purchasers have a real chance to make money by investing.

Lacombe must develop to a good sized town in the near future. Nothing develops a town faster than railways, and we are certainly blessed with them. The grade of the C. N. R. Lacombe-Strathcona branch is completed from the junction to Lacombe; Lacombe is the divisional point on the C. P. R.'s Lacombe-Moose Jaw line which in the near future, is to be pushed westward from here; six express trains daily on the Calgary-Lacombe-Strathcona line gives an easy access to the north and south. The divisional point of the C. N. R.'s Brazeau and Strathcona-Galaxy lines is at Lacombe, as is also the great junction point from which all the coal from the Brazeau mines will be forwarded to its destination, north and south, east and west. The G. T. P. has decided on Lacombe as an important point on their system, and their engineers are already here. There is every indication that the Lacombe and Blindman Valley Electric line will be commenced this year, which will open up the great mining country west of us.

With advantages such as these, what can possibly keep Lacombe back?

Laying railways out of the question altogether, our fertile farm lands would assure the future of Lacombe. In all the west there is not a district to compare with it. In no other part of the West can so many well-to-do farmers be found, and their success is due to the fact that they were farmers enough to know that mixed farming was what our fertile valleys were intended for.

Every farmer in the district is a mixed farmer, and as a consequence it will off. There is always a good demand for cattle and hogs, and those who go in for dairying report great profits. In mixed farming there is never a crop failure, and that is why we can boast that a crop failure is an unknown thing in this district.

But when it comes to growing grain, Lacombe can hold her own with the world. Data yielding 1354 bushels to the measured acre, and which made the world's record at Spokane exhibition a year ago were grown here, and our farmers did not think it a very wonderful yield. Our cattle and horses invariably clean up the prize rings at Calgary, Edmonton and other exhibitions.

And yet there are thousands of acres of land to be procured close to Lacombe at very reasonable prices. This state of affairs will not be for long. The five men from the other side are flocking here in ever increasing numbers and 1912 will see the last of the low-priced land. And as the land settles up Lacombe must grow.

Other towns may come and go; new places may spring up over night, boom and plague almost as quickly, but Lacombe is secure in her position as the centre of the most desirable farming district in Alberta, and Lacombe must grow.

must take her place as one of the best towns in Western Canada. Watch Lacombe grow.

Palestine in Lacombe

The fascinating East is about to pay us a visit in the form of a series of two realistic scenes of Eastern life to be held in the Gilmour Hall on Thursday and Friday, the 30th and the 31st of May, at 8 p.m.

These lectures will consist of oriental songs, accompanied by a native orchestra from Palestine—wedding, music and trade scenes. These will also be a Bedouin tent pitched on the banks of the Jordan and the Bedouins will be about their ordinary every-day duties, such as grinding at the mill, burning butter, baking bread. The life and customs of the eastern shepherds will be explained. Town and village characters will be seen, with the result that the Bible will live before your eyes, through a vivid picture of the land where the book was written. Admission to each lecture 25c. Mountain Grove

During last winter one of the farmers in this district, Mr. W. H. Waddell, went to California and took into himself a wife. To celebrate the home-coming, the young people from around decided that it be done in a nice and ancient form, by a good old fashioned, chivalrous, couple arrived during the end of the week so on Monday night the event came off at the house of his brother-in-law, Mr. T. O. Covert, with the usual accompaniments of cow bells, tin pans, etc. Will responded with his usual liberality, after which the floor was cleared and a very pleasant evening spent in dancing.
